

Prof. Dr. Ahmet Kaan Gündüz

Ahmet Kaan Gündüz is currently Professor of Ophthalmology at Ankara University Faculty of Medicine, Ankara, Turkey. Gündüz is Director of the Ocular Oncology Service at this institution.

After obtaining his MD degree from Hacettepe University, Ankara, Turkey in 1988, Gündüz completed his residency at Ankara University, between 1998-1993. He completed a two-year ocular oncology fellowship at Wills Eye Hospital, Philadelphia, USA during the period from 1996-1998 under the mentorship of Drs. Jerry and Carol Shields.

In 1997 Gündüz completed a one-year clinical vitreo- retinal surgery fellowship at Mayo Clinic, USA during which he had the pleasure of working with Dr. Jose Pulido, Dr. Colin McCannel, and Dr. Sophie Bakri.

Gündüz published more than 130 papers in indexed journals and wrote or co-authored several book chapters and monographs. His main interests include intraocular tumors, vitreoretinal diseases and surgery, and uveitis. Gündüz serves as a section editor in the journal Eye, Middle-East African Journal of Ophthalmology and is an editorial board member in 2 other journals including Expert Review of Ophthalmology and International Journal of Biomedical Sciences. He is a member of the Turkish Ophthalmological Society, International Society of Ocular Oncology, and American Academy of Ophthalmology.